Item 7.01 Regulation FD Disclosure.

CQENS Technology Inc. (the “Company”) has been informed that it has been granted two new patents for its Heat-not-Burn Device and Method technology. On January 21, 2022 the Company was granted a patent by the Patent office of Singapore and been given Patent No. 11202006324T. In addition, on March 15, 2022, the Company was issued United States Patent No.: 11,272,741 by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). The patents cover the proprietary technology behind the CQENS System, a device and method for the inductive heating of a variety of consumable formulations and the subsequent production of an aerosol leading to the effective inhalation of the consumable’s constituents. This is accomplished without combustion or the accompanying constituents of combustion.

The Company believes its proprietary technology differs from other Heated Tobacco Products currently on the market because CQENS’ technology is a high temperature, non-combustion system, unlike low temperature, non-combustion systems available in certain international markets. The Company now has been issued three patents, two US and one Asian, for its Heat-not-Burn Device and Method and has another 21 U.S. and international patents pending for the CQENS system. According to a recent report by Dublin-based Research and Markets, the global Heated Tobacco Product market is expected to grow from $10.63 billion USD in 2021, reaching $42.41 billion USD in 2025.

Pursuant to General Instruction B.2 of Form 8-K, the information in this Item 7.01 of Form 8-K is being furnished and shall not be deemed “filed” for the purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or otherwise be subject to the liabilities of that section, nor is it incorporated by reference into any filing of the Company under the Securities Act of 1933 or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, whether made before or after the date hereof, regardless of any general incorporation language in such filing.
